

VACANCY

(m/f)

QUALITY MANAGER

Gaasch Packaging is one of the leading global wholesalers in the rigid packaging industry. Based in Belgium, Luxemburg and the U.K., the company is serving customers over the five continents, including Canada, the United States of America, France, the Russian Federation, Ukraine, Northern Africa, the Middle East, Israel, South Africa, Australia, China, etc.

We are a company with history tracing back to 1906, when Jean-Baptiste Gaasch, the ancestor of the current managers, started up a business in the glass container sector. Over the years, the company has grown to become a major and renowned player, supplying a broad range of products, e.g. bottles, jars, vials and other containers and their accessories, in glass as well as PE, PP, PVC and PET, to the two main market segments: (1) pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and industry (chemicals/household) and (2) food and drinks.

The job:

Together with a colleague company of a similar size in Germany we are setting up a joined quality department. As the first person in this team you will be involved in the definition of standards and procedures in close cooperation with the management.

The standards and procedures will apply for both companies. Internally you will set up a quality system in accordance to ISO 9001 leveraging the best practices in both companies. You will be responsible for the implementation to the point of an audit in both companies.

You will define quality criteria for existing internal processes and monitor them. You will establish an internal quality training program for all members of both companies. Your practical experience in this role will be of help.

Externally you will handle quality claims with customers and suppliers together with the sales team. You will be responsible in case of customer audits and you will audit our important suppliers. You will set-up and maintain a database of quality information at the disposal of both companies.

We require:

- Practical experience in the management of quality.
- Good understanding of technical questions and manufacturing processes.
- Good communication skills in Dutch / French and English. The knowledge of German is a plus.
- Affinity to working in an international environment and regular travels.
- The ability to work independently.

We offer:

- An interesting career path inside a growing group of companies, with the possibility to build up a new department.
- An attractive salary.
